Q1 John Cage's *4'33"

- Silence doesn't exist — the ambient sounds in the room (coughing, shuffling, traffic) are the music
- The composer's role is to design a system and frame attention, not to produce content
- The audience and their environment become the work — without knowing it

Q2 Creative Sobriety

- Originality isn't about inventing something from nothing
- It means knowing your own experiences and intentions well enough to use them deliberately
- Going from "is this something new?" to "what is mine here, and what am I doing with it?"
